

Juventus star thanks fans for support after chanting at match

Soccer player Blaise Matuidi has received support from across the world after claims he was racially abused during Juventus' match against Cagliari in Italy's top division on Saturday.

'O Mágico' joins Barca in $170M transfer

His nickname is "O Magico" and Barcelona will be hoping that Brazilian international Philippe Coutinho will continue to weave his special brand of magic after moving to the Spanish club from Barcelona.

Qatari royals' jewels stolen in Venice

Three dead in Europe storm

Three people have died and tens of thousands have been left without power as Storm Eleanor sweeps across western Europe.

Turkish soccer star in record deal

Everton are on the verge of making Cenk Tosun the most expensive Turkish player in Super Lig history.

Can France's Macron save EU?

Emmanuel Macron has earned the reputation of a man who dreams impossible dreams and then turns them into reality.

Murray pulls out of Australian Open

Former world No.1 Andy Murray, who has not played competitively since July because of a hip injury, has withdrawn from the Australian Open.

Irish PM aspires to 'united Ireland'

Irish Prime Minister Leo Varadkar has said he aspires to a united Ireland based on "cross-community support" in remarks released on Tuesday, the UK Press Association reported.

Blaze destroys 1,600 cars

A massive fire has ripped through a 1,600-capacity parking deck in Liverpool, UK, destroying hundreds of vehicles and forcing some people to spend the New Year in temporary shelters.

Guardiola: EPL schedule will 'kill' players

Manchester City manager Pep Guardiola has renewed his criticism of the Premier League's fixture schedule, urging organizers to think about the risk players were facing with games held so closely together over the festive period.

Russian opposition leader banned from election

The Russian Supreme Court has rejected an appeal by the country's opposition leader, Alexei Navalny, after the Russian Central Election Commission barred him from running in the 2018 presidential election, Russian state news agency RIA Novosti reported on Saturday.

'Fruit of war': Pope prints photo of Nagasaki victims

Pope Francis is having cards printed and distributed showing a 1945 photo of victims of the nuclear bombing of Nagasaki along with the words "the fruit of war."

Ringo Starr and Barry Gibb knighted

The Beatles drummer Ringo Starr and BeeGees co-founder Barry Gibb have been awarded knighthoods by Britain's Queen Elizabeth in her 2018 New Year honors list.

Red Cross sets up 'women's safety area' in Berlin

New Year's Eve celebrations in Berlin will feature a special safe area for women who feel harassed.

Why so hard to sculpt Ronaldo?

He is one of the most recognizable stars in the world. One of the greatest footballers to have ever played the beautiful game. But Cristiano Ronaldo does not have much luck when it comes to statues and sculptures.

World's richest country expands

Monaco may be the second smallest country in the world, but it is also one of the richest.

Where French elegance and racing collide

Capturing Barcelona's disappearing signs

Signage isn't necessarily the first thing that comes to mind when one thinks of Barcelona, but it seems we're all missing a trick.

Royal engagements through the years

Commonwealth Games host city named

The luxury hotel in a Norwegian cabin

Gene Simmons on Prince: He 'did it all'

KISS bassist Gene Simmons speaks to CNN's Pamela Brown about his immense respect for Prince.

Mysterious fireball lights up night sky

A bright glowing object, believed to be a meteor, flashed through the atmosphere above northeast Scotland, lighting the night sky and startling residents.

The crystal Bible to last a billion years

Researchers in the U.K. have developed digital data discs that can survive possibly longer than the human race.

Cricket spaghetti sold in France

This business in northeastern France is making pasta out of creepy crawlies.

What is the European Union?

CNN's Max Foster explains the origins and founding philosophy of the European Union.

500-year-old shipwreck emerges from river

A 15th century merchant ship has been raised from a riverbed in the Netherlands.

Jews leave France in record numbers

New data from Israel shows that a record number of French Jews have left France in the twelve months since the Charlie Hebdo attacks.

The hottest designers creating today

Reinventing the classic park bench design